BONUS PASSES HOUSE; VOTE 333 TO 70

Over President's Protest; All
Kentuckians Present Vote
For Bill.

Washington, March 23.—Open revolt against President Warren G. Harding, on the part of the legislative branch of the Republican Administration was affirmed by the House of Representatives this evening when that body, after a premeditated orgy of raucous and unruly debate, passed the soldier bonus measure providing for a $5,000,000,000 deferred cash compensation plan, by a vote of 333 to 70. The "gag-rule," applied at the outset, worked ruthlessly.

Protesting Democrats and Republicans alike joined, either angrily or gleefully, in the stampede to preserve political skins.

Action of the House transferred the burden of responsibility to the Senate. That body, with the belief growing in some quarters that Mr. Harding will not veto the measure if the Senate passes it, will be subjected immediately to grueling pressure on the part of the bonus advocates.

Women's Vote Used As Club

Immediately after the House voted this evening, it was learned that a new movement is being generated to instill for the first time a fear of the woman vote among the Senators who must run for re-election next autumn. The theory is that there are more bonus advocates among women than men and that their sentiments may be crystallized through the action of local bodies of all kinds.

A flood of telegrams which clicked over the wires in preparation for this onslaught gave only a hint of the return avalanche expected at the Senate office building during the next week. But pressure is expected to be even greater from opponents of the scheme.

80 Speeches Are Made

More than eighty speeches, each from eight to fifteen minutes in length, made up the oratorical circus, staged partly as justification for defiance of the Administration and partly as a concession. That was all the yielding done by the House leaders in their determination to clear their political skirts. Their ruthless rule prevented any tampering with the certificate plan of compensation laid down in the bill drafted by Chairman Joseph W. Fordney and his Republican associates on the Way and Means Committee.

Speaker Frederick H. Gillette's failure to kill the gag-rule plan made Mr. Fordney master of the situation. He relented only to the extent of allotting a few minutes here and there to those who wanted to speak against the bill. His signal finger moved up and down with despotic authority.

Kentuckians Favor Bonus

All members of the Kentucky delegation, Democrats and Republicans, voted for the bill, except Representative Charles F. Ogden, of Louisville, and Representative William J. Fields, of Olive Hill. Both were unavoidably absent. Representative R. Y. Thomas, Democrat, and Representative John W. Langley, Republican, both advocates of some form of a bonus, contributed to the debate.

Mr. Thomas protested—but voted for the bill. Mr. Langley's request or enactment of his hospital bill first was dissolved at the end of Mr. Fordney's authoritative finger.

The debate availed nothing to either side, except to demonstrate that red will be the predominant color in spring fashions, for carmine and vermilion and bright pink shrieked through the packed galleries in harmony with the defiant attitude of the House.

If the spirit shown by the House is transferred to the Senate, along with the responsibility, Mr. Harding will be confronted with the most serious problem of his Administration and will be forced to a definite stand against Congress or a definite surrender to the bonus proponents. It is predicted by some, however, that the Senate will withstand all pressure.

Bill Goes to Senate Today

The measure will go to the upper body tomorrow and will be referred to the Finance Committee, headed by Senator Porter J. McCumber, who is for the bill. Mr. McCumber predicted tonight that the measure would be passed at an early date. He announced that he would consult with the President soon in order to ascertain his views as to the future of the measure. Opinion in both the Senate and the House—and this opinion was voiced freely in the House debate today—is that the bonus will die in the Senate this time just as it did before.

As wide a split in party ranks as that which marked the House vote today is nevertheless a possibility in the Senate. In spite of bitter partisan speeches of protest at the tactics by which the measure was thrust down the throats of the House members, the necessary two-thirds required to put the measure through under suspension of the rules was obtained easily. Eighty-eight Democrats took the bitter pill and voted for the bill, with only forty-three Republicans refused to follow their leaders.

TAYLOR—RIDINGS

Miss Marguerite Taylor and Mr. James Ridings, of Nashville, were quietly married at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at the parsonage of Settle Memorial church, Rev. C. C. Gregory, pastor, officiating. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. John Barker, Miss Ollie Marie Truman and Mr. J. Ridings, of Nashville, brother of the groom.

The bride wore her traveling suit of blue tricotine, with accessories to match, a corsage of Ward roses and sweetpeas completing her costume. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Taylor, and is a very attractive and popular member of the younger social circles. Mr. and Mrs. Ridings left immediately following the ceremony for a western wedding trip, following which they will make their home in Nashville, where the groom is connected with the Hippodrome Motor Co. (Owensboro Messenger.) The bride is a niece of Mrs. Howard Ellis, of this city, and has many friends here who wish her and her husband much happiness.

LOUISVILLE FACTORY BURNS WITH $130,000 LOSS

Louisville, Ky., March 23.—Damage resulting from the fire that today swept the tobacco rehandling plant of W. S. Matthews & Sons, 114-116 South Tenth street, tonight, was estimated at $130,000 by Nat F. Dorch, vice-president of the company. Previous estimates were as high as $250,000. The origin of the blaze still is undetermined, but employees hinted to firemen it was caused by a cigarette smoker. The four-story building, which was destroyed, was said to have been Louisville's oldest factory.

LOUISVILLE BILL IS KILLED BY GOVERNOR

Frankfort, March 23.—Governor Morrow tonight vetoed house bill No. 229—the Louisville city government bill—because, he said, it does not embrace or follow and is not true to the recommendations contained in the report of the city government committee.

The governor also said that the bill as framed and passed is a departure from the report of the city government committee in partisan matters not contemplated by, nor vouched for, by the city government committees report.

THOMPSON TAX BILL IS VETOED BY GOV. MORROW

Measure Would Drive Manufacturing Plants From the State, Executive Says.

Frankfort, Ky., March 24.—Governor Morrow today vetoed the Thompson tax bill and the Nelson bill prohibiting the parole of long-time prisoners. He also vetoed the Minor bill permitting banks to charge for exchanges which was defeated and enrolled by mistake. He did this to be perfectly safe.

In vetoing the Thompson bill the Governor recited the history of the present tax law, which, he said, "in the short time it has been in operation has proven its worth and has the approval in all substantial features of practically every thoughtful citizen."

"As a result of its provisions many manufacturing plants with investments of millions of dollars have located in the Commonwealth and have given employment to thousands of citizens and pay of these employees has helped the general business of the community. The location of these factories has increased the taxable property of the State and has relieved other property of some of the burden of government."

Would Drive Away Industries

Elimination of the provisions exempting manufacturing plants and raw materials from local taxation, he said, "will not only prevent the location of other factories in Kentucky, but will go far toward driving from our Commonwealth some of the great industries located here."

HOUSE VOTES TO DECREASE ARMY 115,000 MEN

Washington, March 22.—Disregarding the recommendations of President Harding and the General Staff, the House this afternoon declared for an army of not more than 115,000.

Voting against the Administration's demand for a military force of 143,000 enlisted men, the House sifted a parliamentary jam from which emerged:

First—Defeat of the Administration's amendment to the army appropriation bill to provide for 143,000 men and 7,000 Philippine Scouts instead of 115,000 recommended in the measure.

Second—Refusal to accept an amendment to reduce the army to 100,000.

Third—Defeat of an amendment providing for a 50,000-man power army.

Fourth—Acceptance of the 115,000 armed force proposal.

The Kahn amendment to provide an army of 143,000 men was defeated, 84 to 45.

The 50,000 man proposal was lost by a viva voce vote and a 100,000 force was turned down by a vote of 98 to 21.

DID IT DO YOU ANY GOOD

Did the Revival services benefit you? Do you love his house, his word, his cause or lost souls any better than you did? Have you made resolutions of greater consecration and activity?

Sunday morning will be a good test. How many of you are going to be present at Sunday School at 9:45 a. m. and at regular preaching service at 11:45 a. m? May I not have the pleasure of seeing every Baptist in Hartford at these services.

BRIBE CHARGED TO GOVERNOR OF OKLAHOMA

Warrant Issued For State's Chief Executive and Former Banking Commissioner

Okmulgee, Okla., March 22.—A joint indictment charging Gov. J. B. A. Robertson, of Oklahoma and Fred G. Dennis, former State Banking Commissioner with accepting a bribe to permit the Guaranty State Bank here to continue to do business after it had been found insolvent was returned by the District Court grand jury yesterday, it was learned today by the Associated Press.

Sheriff Frank Sowers, of Okmulgee County, has a warrant for Governor Robertson's arrest, but said he expected to hear from the executive some time during the day and that he did not intend to serve the document today.

The indictment names Mr. Robertson and Mr. Dennis as recipients of a $25,000 bribe to deposit $150,000 in State funds in the Guaranty State Bank of this city and allow the bank to continue to operate while in an insolvent condition.

Bank Officials Arrested

John P. Cook, former president of the bank, and John H. Rebold, vice president also were indicted and arrested.

The indictment charges that the money was paid to the Governor and Dennis with the "felonious intent to influence the acts, decisions and judgment of them" after Dennis had conducted an examination of the bank's affairs on the same day and found the institution to be insolvent, and that Rebold was liable to the bank for money borrowed, in the sum of $400,000.

It was alleged that Dennis failed to close the bank or make any true report as to its condition to the State Banking Board and that he and Governor Robertson agreed with the defendants that $150,000 in State funds would be deposited in the bank and that it would be permitted to continue to do business.

Eight warrants served on Rebold. The indictment further averred that Governor Robertson and Dennis accepted the $25,000 and applied it to their own use.

Eight separate warrants were served on Rebold, charging accepting deposits in an insolvent bank in four cases, bribing an officer, accepting bribes, perjury and unlawfully borrowing money from a bank while an active officer of the institution.

Cook was arrested under indictments charging accepting deposits in an insolvent bank in four cases and bribing an officer.

John W. Hammond, president of a local wholesale concern and formerly a director in the Guaranty State Bank, later was arrested on a charge of unlawfully borrowing money while an active and managing officer in a bank.

Head of Defunct Bank Held

Later J. Hay Brown, president of the defunct Bank of Commerce was arrested on eight indictments, four of which charged accepting deposits in an insolvent bank, three charged embezzlement and one charged that he made a false report as to the condition of the bank.

A. J. Peters, former vice president of the Guaranty State Bank and now president of the American National Bank here, was arrested on an indictment alleging that he had removed abstracts and papers of the Guaranty State Bank.

J. B. A. Robertson is the fourth Governor of the State of Oklahoma, having been elected on the Democratic ticket in 1918. He has been a resident of Oklahoma since 1893.

Word was received by a confidential source that Governor Robertson would be here on the "first train."

Dennis disappeared from Oklahoma soon after resigning from office. So far as is known local authorities have no clues as to his present whereabouts.

The money, the indictment charged, was paid in a cashier's check which was later cashed by Governor Robertson and Dennis.

The indictment accusing Governor Robertson of connection with alleged illegal transactions is not the first time his name has been linked with the Okmulgee bank situation.

In a report returned by the investigation committees of the House of the Eighth Oklahoma Legislature on March 31 of last year, the Governor was charged with having accepted a bribe for misuse of his official powers in connection with the illegal transactions involving the Guaranty State Bank of Okmulgee. His impeachment was recommended, but in a spectacular scene in which a sick member of the House was brought to the chamber in an ambulance to vote, the body rejected the committee report, 42 to 42.

J. T. Jenkins, of Oklahoma City, who left his sick bed to vote against the report, later died. The majority of the House were Republicans and the Governor and his friends at the time declared the attack on him was political. The executive denied in detail the accusations brought against him.

FOUR-POWER TREATY IS RATIFIED BY SENATE

Wins, 67 to 27; Four More Than Necessary Two-Thirds Majority.

Washington, March 24.—The Four-Power Pacific Treaty was ratified today by the Senate.

The vote on ratification was 67 to 27.

This was four more than the necessary two-thirds and the roll call showed twelve Democrats voting for ratification and four Republicans against ratification.

The dozen Democrats favoring ratification were Broussard, Dial, Fletcher, Kendrick, McKellar, Myers, Owen, Pomerene, Ransdell, Trammell, Underwood and Williams.

The four Republican opponents were Borah, France, Johnson and La Follette.

Two absent Senators, Crow, Republican, Pennsylvania, and Jones, Democrat, New Mexico, were announced as supporters of the treaty.

Senate approval of the pact was voted after all proposed amendments and reservations except the "no alliance" declaration, accepted by president Harding, had been defeated.

As incorporated in the resolution of ratification the reservation says:

"The United States understands that under the statement in the preamble or under the terms of this treaty there is no commitment to armed force, no alliance, no obligation to join in any defense."

All Reservations Rejected

Washington, March 24.—The United States Senate at 1:50 o'clock this afternoon had adopted each of the four articles of the Four-Power Treaty and voted down every reservation offered.

The Senate then proceeded to go ahead with the vote on the adoption of the resolution on ratification.

Article II of the treaty, the storm center of the fight against the pact, was adopted by a majority vote of 28 to 66.

Article IV, providing for the scrapping of the Anglo-Japanese alliance by each of the four Powers, was agreed to by a vote of 73 to 8.

A reservation providing for the granting of independence to the Philippines within ten years after ratification of the pact was rejected. The reservation was proposed by Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, and was defeated by a vote of 60 to 27.

The resolution of ratification was called up by Senator Lodge following the adoption of Article IV, the concluding one of the pact. Having exhausted their efforts to amend the treaty itself or to attach reservations to it, the treaty's opponents concentrated their attacks on the Brandegee "no alliance" reservation incorporated in the resolution of ratification after its adoption by a majority of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Funeral services were conducted at Pond Run Baptist Church, of which she was a member, by her Pastor, R. E. Fuqua. She was a splendid Christian woman and was loved by all who knew her. It is said that a larger number of people attended her funeral than have ever gathered at a funeral there, in the history of that church.

Mrs. Robinson was 42 years, 3 months and 11 days of age. She is survived by her husband and one little girl, and a host of friends to mourn her departure.

APPROVAL GIVEN

Frankfort, March 21.—Fifteen measures passed by the Kentucky general assembly today were signed by Governor Morrow. Among them was the bill forbidding the use of daylight saving time in Louisville.

The governor also signed the Stoll bill allowing the University of Kentucky and the normal schools the right to condemn land and the Brock bill changing the names of the Eastern and Western State Normal schools to "Eastern State Normal school and Teachers' college" and the "Western State Normal school and Teachers' college."

The Bell senate bill classifying newspapers and printing plants as manufacturing establishments and exempting them from municipal taxation was signed.

The Daugherty senate bill enabling the state to take title to "Federal Hill," near Bardstown where Stephen Collins Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home" and appropriating $10,000 for its upkeep and repair.

The Simmons senate bill making the child desertion laws apply to desertion of women about to become mothers.

The Atwood senate bill providing that the State Highway commission may order grade crossings eliminated on highways whenever it deems this action necessary and providing that the state and railroads shall divided the cost.

The Bright senate bill requiring the teaching of singing in schools.

The Perry bill providing for abolishing grade crossings in Louisville also was signed.

WALK-OUT OF MINERS SURE MARCH 31

Indianapolis, March 21.—Suspension of work by all union coal miners at midnight, March 31, was ordered today by officers of the United Mine Workers of America, the call being the first ever issued for both bituminous and anthracite workers to walk out simultaneously. Six hundred thousand men will be affected directly by the order, it was estimated officially. The suspension, the order provided, will continue until stopped by union officials.

The order, which was sent to the 3,000 local unions, directed the miners to give the operators their fullest co-operation in the protection of mine property and counseled against violence and violations of the law.

In addition to affecting all union miners in the United States, the order also directed approximately 6,650 union men in Western Canada to join in the walkout but did not apply to 14,000 miners in Nova Scotia.

Never before in the history of the coal industry has a suspension or strike order called for cessation of work by all union miners in the United States; in the past wage contracts in the bituminous and the anthracite fields have not expired at the same time, but a complete tieup in union fields was considered during the great anthracite strike in 1902. A sympathetic strike by the bituminous miners at that time was rejected by the union's convention, it being argued that the soft coal workers were bound by a contract. The issuance of the call came with the recent strike vote of soft coal miners, not completely tabulated, but it was officially declared that work of the union's board of tellers had progressed to such a point as to show every field voting overwhelmingly in favor of a suspension. Indications were that nine-tenths of the miners favored the walkout.

Cessation of the suspension, in whole or in part, is left to the union's policy committee, composed of more than 100 union officials which will meet in Cleveland, Friday to consider plans for conducting the strike.

Vital Statistics For Ohio County Show Considerable Variation From Year to Year

Vital statistics as compiled for Ohio County during the past eight years show considerable variation in births as well as deaths. Strange to say, when deaths run highest births seem to be most numerous. Since the year 1913 the highest death rate, 461, was recorded in 1918 and during that year there were 850 births reported. The low year of deaths was 1916 when 297 deaths were reported as against 557 births.

The fees and expenses accruing against the County on account of compiling the statistics varies according to number of deaths and births: For 1916 the cost amounted to $430.75, while in 1918 it amounted to $632.25.

Following is the rate by years:

	Births	Deaths
1914	784	364
1915	788	305
1916	557	297
1917	802	454
1918	850	461
1919	646	327
1920	748	367
1921	685	298

A Waterloo Boy Does Your Work The Way You Want It Done

When you buy a Waterloo Boy Tractor you get the kind of service that pays most—the service you want. The Waterloo Boy handles your power jobs, both drawbar and belt, the way you want them done.

Its twin-cylinder engine gives you 12 H. P. at the drawbar, and 25 H. P. on the belt. It burns kerosene, and by means of a patented manifold converts every drop of this low-priced fuel into rugged, positive power.

JOHN DEERE WATERLOO BOY TRACTOR

A pump, fan, and radiator cooling system holds the engine at the proper temperature for correct lubrication, and maintains enough heat to insure complete combustion. The radiator holds thirteen gallons. You don't have to stop in the field every few hours on a hot day and fill it. That's real service.

Accessibility and simplicity of construction make the Waterloo Boy a real farmer's tractor. Two-cylinder design permits large, rugged parts, also fewer parts. Fewer parts make it easy to understand. It's easy to care for a Waterloo Boy.

The Waterloo Boy is especially strong and rugged in its construction. It stands up under the most difficult and trying conditions of your farm work. Its various parts are designed to meet every possible strain. Its well-balanced weight provides proper traction in soft ground.

You have to see the Waterloo Boy to appreciate it fully. Come in and we will show you and tell you why the Waterloo Boy is the right tractor for your farm.

the association, the tobacco delivered to it by and at the order of the association. Such service will be on a non-profit basis, and the corporation shall receive therefor only the actual costs of such operations and a guaranty for amounts sufficient to pay a dividend of 8 per cent on the outstanding stock and to retire in each of the five calendar years, beginning with 1923, one-fifth of the preferred stock, or one class thereof, and sufficient amounts for interest, taxes, insurance, depreciation, betterment and commercial and secondary charges, all as the directors of the association may instruct, and limit the corporation and not otherwise; and the corporation will issue to the association common capital stock equivalent to all payments advanced for dividends, interest, redemption of stocks.

The corporation will agree to do no buying or selling of tobacco whatsoever.

Public Warehouses

(i) Any warehouses shall be conducted as a public warehouse, with such charges as may be imposed through an official body or with such charges as are generally prevalent in the district; and any profits made from such operation as a public warehouse shall be utilized for payment of overhead expenses of the corporation.

(j) The association will raise the funds to retire each class of preferred stock and pay dividends on stock by deductions from the marketing proceeds of the members generally or within the respective districts in which or for whose use or benefit the warehouses, etc., are acquired or built and operated, as the directors the Association shall be handled in one major pool; and the minor pools shall first be by type, then by grade and quality within each type.

Association will Resell

6. The Association agrees to resell such tobacco, together with tobacco of like type, grade and quality, delivered by other growers under similar contracts, at the best prices obtainable by it under market conditions; and to pay over the net amount received therefrom (less freight, insurance and interest), as payment in full to the grower and growers named in contracts similar hereto, according to the tobacco delivered by each of them, after deducting therefrom, within the discretion of the Association, the costs of maintaining the Association and of handling, grading and marketing such tobacco; and of creating funds for credits and other general commercial purposes (said funds not to exceed 1 per cent of the gross resale price). The annual surplus from such deductions must be prorated among the growers delivering tobacco in that year on the basis of deliveries.

Same Amount for the Same Type

The grower agrees that the Association may handle, in its discretion, some of the tobacco in one way and some in another; may sell some upon delivery; may cure or process or manufacture all or any portion thereof, but the net proceeds of all tobacco or tobacco products of like type, quality and grade, less charges, costs and advances, shall be divided ratably among the growers in proportion to their deliveries to each pool, payments to be made from time to time until all the accounts of each pool are settled.

The Association may contract with the owners of redrying plants to redry and store tobacco delivered by the members of the Association.

Tobacco Sold Where Most Profitable

8. The Association may sell the said tobacco, within or without the United States, directly to manufacturers or exporters or otherwise, at such time and in such form and upon such conditions and terms as it may deem profitable, fair and advantageous to the growers; and it may sell all or any part of the tobacco with or through any other agency established for the co-operative marketing of the tobacco of other growers, under such conditions as will serve the joint interest of the growers and the public; and any proportionate expenses connected therewith shall be deemed marketing costs under paragraph six.

The Association Can Raise Money To Make First Payment to Growers

9. The grower agrees that the Association shall have absolute title to the tobacco upon delivery thereof; and that the Association shall borrow money in its name on the tobacco, through drafts, acceptances, notes or otherwise, or on any warehouse receipts or bills of lading or upon any accounts for the sale of tobacco or on any commercial paper delivered therefor. The Association shall prorate the money so received among the growers equitably, as it may determine, for each district and period of delivery.

The Association agrees to accept drafts drawn against it by the grower for any amount specified and determined by it, upon delivery of tobacco hereunder; and to assist the grower to discount such drafts, secured by the warehouse receipt, through the most advantageous banking system.

Offices or Plants

10. The Association may establish selling offices, warehouses, plants, marketing, statistical or other agencies in any place.

You Can Stop Growing Tobacco

11. The grower shall have the right to stop growing tobacco and to grow anything else at any time at his free discretion; but if he produces any tobacco, or acquires or owns any interest in any tobacco, as landlord or lessor, during the term hereof, it shall all be included under the terms of this agreement and must be sold only to the Association. You Do Not Have to Deliver Any Particular Amount

12. Nothing in this agreement shall be interpreted as compelling the grower to deliver any specified quantity of tobacco each year; but he shall deliver all the tobacco produced by or for him.

You Deliver All the Tobacco You Raise or Control

13. (a) This agreement shall be binding upon the grower as long as he produces tobacco directly or indirectly, or has the legal right to exercise control of any commercial tobacco or any interest therein as a producer or landlord during the term of this contract.

(b) If this agreement is signed by the members of a co-partnership, it shall apply to them and each of them individually in the event of the said co-partnership; and to their dissolution or termination of the proportionate interests therein under any circumstances.

(c) The grower agrees that no member of his family or his tenants have any control or interest in his may determine conclusively.

Growers Get Credit For All Deductions To Retire Stock

(k) As the preferred stock is retired the association will calculate the value of the contribution from each grower's tobacco toward such retirement and toward payment of dividends; and the corporation will credit and issue from time to time to each such member common stock in an equivalent amount, at the book value thereof, as conclusively established by the directors of the association, as soon as the aggregate deductions equal the book value of one or more shares.

Marketing Agreement Is Here Accepted

17. (a) The subscriber agrees to be bound by the terms of the following Marketing Agreement.

For such purpose, signature to this Association Contract shall be deemed to all effects the same as signature to the said Marketing Agreement and as acceptance by the Board of Directors of the Association, as of the date of mailing notice thereof to the subscriber, at his address as noted below.

Application for Membership

(b) The subscriber here applies for membership in the Association, when organized, and expressly agrees that his signature to this Association Contract and to the Marketing Agreement, herewith embodied, and to this application for membership, shall be irrevocable, except as provided in paragraph thirteen; and that he so agrees in order to induce other growers to sign this agreement for his benefit as well as their own general benefit and the public welfare.

(c) Acceptance of this application for membership and of the Marketing Agreement shall be deemed conclusive upon the mailing of the notice by the Association; and such mailing and notice shall be conclusively established by the affidavit of the Secretary of the Association.

DARK TOBACCO GROWERS' CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION MARKETING AGREEMENT

The Dark Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, a nonprofit association, hereinafter called the Association, first party, and the undersigned Grower, second party, agree: This is for Co-operative Marketing

Grower Sells Tobacco to Association for Five Years

2. The Association agrees to buy and the grower agrees to sell and deliver to the Association all of the tobacco produced by or for him or acquired by him as landlord or lessor during the years 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926.

If You Have a Crop Mortgage

3. The grower expressly warrants that he has not heretofore contracted to sell, market or deliver any of his said tobacco to any person, firm or corporation, except as noted at the end of this agreement. Any tobacco covered by such existing contracts or crop mortgage shall be excluded from the terms hereof for the period and to the extent noted, if the lienholder exercises his legal right of possession or sale.

Where to Deliver

4. (a) All tobacco shall be delivered at the earliest reasonable time after cutting or curing, drying, or firing, when customary, to the order of the Association, at the warehouse or plant controlled or specified by the Association; or at the nearest warehouse, if the Association controls or specifies no warehouse or plant in that immediate district; or by shipment, as directed, to the Association; and by delivery to the Association of the indorsed warehouse or other receipts or bills of lading, properly directed.

Poor Tobacco is Penalized

(b) Any deduction or allowance or loss that the Association may make or suffer on account of inferior grade, quality or condition at delivery shall be charged against the grower individually.

Standardize Methods

(c) The Association shall make rules and regulations and provide inspectors or graders to standardize and grade the quality and method and manner of handling, curing and shipping such tobacco; and the grower agrees to observe any such rules and regulations and to adopt the grading established by the State and Federal authorities and the Association.

Pool by Type and Grade

5. The Association shall pool or mingle the tobacco of the grower with tobacco of a like type, grade and quality delivered in the same crop year by other growers. The Association shall classify the tobacco and its classification shall be conclusive.

The tobacco delivered in any crop year to any point at the order of share of the crop as indicated below or otherwise.

You May Make a Crop Mortgage

(d) If the grower places any lien or crop mortgage upon any of his crops during the term hereof, the Association shall have the right to take delivery of his tobacco and to pay off all or part of the lien or crop mortgage for the account of the grower and to charge the same against him individually.

13. (d) The grower may place a mortgage upon his tobacco; and shall notify the Association prior to making any such mortgage. The Association will assist and advise the grower in any such transaction as far as it deems proper.

14. From time to time the grower agrees to mail to the Association any statistical data requested, on the forms provided for that purpose by the Association.

All Contracts Are Alike

15. This agreement is one of a series generally similar in terms comprising with all such agreements, signed by individual growers, or otherwise, one single contract between the Association and the said growers annually and individually obligated under all of the terms thereof. The Association shall be deemed to be acting in its own name for all such growers in any action or legal proceedings on or arising out of this contract.

Curing or Re-Drying Plants

16. (a) The grower hereby expressly authorizes the Association to deliver to any warehousing or other corporation organized for co-operation with this Association any or all of his tobacco for handling, processing, or manufacturing, or storing; and to charge against his tobacco and his prorated share of the funds necessary to create a reserve, equivalent to one class of its preferred stock annually to retire the said class; and to pay the dividends on all outstanding stock thereof.

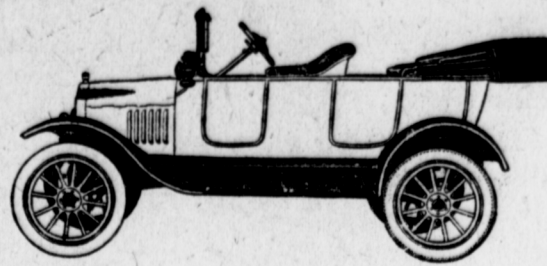

(b) The grower shall be charged for such deductions only on account of warehouses or plants within his district or within his benefit, as determined conclusively by the Association, and for such deductions the grower shall receive a proportionate interest in such corporation.

upon the date of mailing notice of the actual incorporation of the Association, any tobacco of the 1921 or any other crops, free of liens and capable of delivery, he shall deliver such tobacco to the Association, as it may direct, to be graded by the Association and marketed by it, in pools wholly separate from other deliveries hereunder, but generally in the manner here set forth.

Do Not Break the Contract—

18. (a) Inasmuch as the remedy of law would be inadequate, and inasmuch as it is now and ever will be impracticable and extremely difficult to determine the actual damage resulting to Association should the grower fail to sell and deliver all of his tobacco, the grower hereby agrees to pay to the Association for all tobacco delivered, consigned or marketed or withheld by or for him, other than in accordance with the terms hereof, the sum of five cents per pound as liquidated damages, averaged for all types and grades of tobacco, for the breach of this contract; all parties agreeing that this contract is one of a series dependent for its true value upon the adherence of each and all of the growers to each and all of the said contracts.

You Will Try to Get His Tobacco Anyway

(b) The grower agrees that in the event of a breach or threatened breach by him of any provision regarding delivery of tobacco, the Association shall be entitled to an injunction to prevent breach or further breach thereof and to a decree for specific performance hereof; and the parties agree that this is a contract for the purchase and sale of personal property under special circumstances and conditions; and that the buyer cannot go into the open markets and buy tobacco to replace any which the grower may fail to deliver.

Violators Pay the Cost

(c) If the Association brings any action whatsoever by reason of a breach or threatened breach hereof, the grower agrees to pay to the Association all costs of court costs for bond and otherwise, expenses of travel and all expenses arising out of or caused by the litigation and any reasonable attorney's fee expended or incurred by it in such proceedings; and all such costs and expenses shall be included in the judgment and shall be entitled to the benefit of any lien securing any judgment hereunder.

Contract Is Complete On Its Face

19. The parties agree that there are no oral or other conditions, promises, covenants, representations, or inducements in addition to or at variance with any of the terms hereof; and that this agreement represents the voluntary and clear understanding of both parties fully and completely.

National Central Agency

20. The Association is expressly authorized to exercise any or all of the grading, inspecting, marketing or other powers or rights granted hereunder through any central agency to be organized for co-ordinating the activities of this and similar co-operative marketing association in this or other States.

Any costs of maintaining such central agency shall be prorated among the said Associations on the basis of the gross sale proceeds from the products delivered to them respectively or otherwise; and shall be considered part of the costs and deductions provided for in Paragraph six.

Read, considered, and signed by the grower, as of the date determined by the Association Contract and as in the State of Kentucky and subject to interpretation and enforcement according to the laws of Kentucky.

(End of Marketing Agreement)

Minor Changes May Be Made

21. These provisions are subject to minor modification or amendment by the Organization Committee on the suggestion of State officials or otherwise, so as to carry out the general purposes hereof.

All Contracts are the Same—

22. It is expressly agreed that this instrument is one of a series substantially identical in terms. All such instruments shall be deemed one contract for the purpose of binding the subscribers to the same extent as if all of the subscribers had signed one such contract.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29, 1922

Despite the mouthings of treasonable parlor Bolsheviks and weak-kneed preachers, who are trying to get a little cheap notoriety by crying out for a "liberal" observance of Sunday; despite the far-reaching propaganda of the business interests back of Sunday exploitation and the widespread effort to nullify the will of the people as to prohibition, the fact remains and will always so continue, that America is above all a Christian nation. And this fact should not be forgotten by those who aspire to serve the people in the various official capacities. As no man can be a true citizen without God or the fear of Him in his heart, even more is a recognition of the divine Fatherhood necessary in one who seeks to direct the destinies of the nation. Not for a moment do we advocate a narrow, bigoted religious fanaticism nor a psalm-singing puritanism, but a decent regard for and recognition of the Source of all justice and righteousness. The subordinate officers of our nation and commonwealth are equally bound by this obligation of reverence. The President, the Governor, the Clerk,
the Judge, all should be God-fearing, God-revering and God-serving men, in deed, if not by profession. Any aspirant for office in the gift of the people who makes a mockery of the Christian religion or desecrates the Names which are forever sacred to Christendom, is not worthy of such a trust. And the voters, when they have learned such a man's true colors, will remember to forget him at the polls.

Disasters, misfortunes and bereavements, at home, as well as in other sections of the country, or in foreign lands, bring one cheering and compensating truth forcibly to mind and that is that real brother-liness, kindness and sympathy underlie all the apparent surface hardness of this so-called materialistic age.
In spite of the fact that we sometimes appear to be calloused by money-grubbing, pleasure-chasing, selfish ambition and rabid partisanship, when one of our fellows, or thousands of them, feel the heavy hand of misfortune, all selfishness is forgotten and high and low, rich and poor alike, vie with each other in extending the ready hand of help and sympathy. May it ever be so for this would be a poor life indeed without the "milk of human kindness."

THE VALUE OF CO-OPERA-TION BETWEEN RURAL
MAIL CARRIER AND PATRONS

Perhaps the one thing that has been of the greatest benefit to the country people in the last fifty years was the establishment of rural routes in 1893. In the short time elapsing since then, the country has become honeycombed with these routes of service, and the people have become so accustomed to their presence that they are accepted as a matter of course and little if any thought given as to the co-operation necessary for their proper maintenance.

Beginning with October, 1921,
each postmaster, or postal employee designated by him to do the work, is required to make a tour of each route emanating from his office, in April and October of each year. They are instructed to call attention to bad roads, improper boxes, or any other matters that are contrary to the rulings of the department and against the best interests of the routes. After the trips in October and the reports were sent in, much improvement was made; but postmasters everywhere are finding it an up-hill job. Sometimes it is because of inefficient carriers; sometimes the patrons do not want to help; sometimes there really seems to be no way to make the necessary improvements; but the one thing that is tying the hands of the postmasters, making it difficult to put a route in shape for a 'perfect' report, is the fact that the people do not know what is required, and fail to understand that the suggestions and requests are not made for the benefit of the postmaster nor yet the carrier, but to perfect the service for the patron.

In order that there may be a better understanding and co-operation between the post-office department and the rural patron the department wishes to call their attention to some of the things that are necessary to efficient service on a rural route. The roads over which rural routes are required to go should be passable every day of every month in the year. A road which has deep chug holes during the winter months is not a good road. It is not always possible to keep holes out of the roads, but it is possible to fill them up. We are persuaded that if it became a habit among rural patrons for each man to remember the golden rule when a bad place occurred in the road which ran through or around his farm and put in a half day's work during loafing time,
he would be better off and happier.
We are all too prone to leave it for 'the county.' Our ideal of community spirit is to put the roads in as good shape as is humanly possible during road working season, and keep them in that shape by every means available. Grading, drainage, culverts and discriminating use of dynamite are hobbies we wish every road over-seer would ride, and ride hard. Remember that the road you dread to put your horse and buggy over once a week is traveled by your rural carrier six times a week, and often with a load that the uninitiated would think impossible to get on one ordinary buggy. If you are uninformed ask him where the roads get worst, where the mud is deepest, where the holes are bottomless and the bridges jolliest.

And while you are talking about that, ask him what is the matter with your box. Perhaps he will tell you that it has no lid, or that if it has it won't fasten; or perhaps it has no signal or one that will not stand up. Maybe it is so placed that he cannot put his buggy alongside in such a way as to deliver the mail without getting out. Maybe the post is too high or too low. Or you may have put it on your front yard fence so as to be easily accessible to you without regard as to how the hub of the buggy might catch in the fence in passing. Perhaps it is on the wrong side of the road. Have you thought about those things?
And is your name and the box number which was given you when you put up your box or when the route was renumbered written on your box so that it may be easily read by an approaching carrier? Oh, yes, of course the carrier knows that is your box, but what if a substitute or new carrier was put on who did not know you? Would you enjoy having your mail left in some one else's box perhaps on the other end of the route? And while we are talking to the carrier let's find out if every person expecting mail at your box is on the carrier's roster book. These little things are important. We hope you have read this through,
and that your own good judgment will follow on. For the good of the service.

E. W. TURNER LODGE

(Earlington News)

Steven W. Mothershead, the 28th.
Master, was born near Nebo in this county. He is the second son of Nathaniel G. and Elizabeth Mothers-head. His father, the late Dr. Mothers-head, was a native of Scott county, Kentucky, and spent his youth in that section. He moved to Missouri in his early manhood and taught school there until the Civil War. He enlisted in the Confederate cause under General Pierce, and served until the close of the conflict.
When the war was over he went to Arkansas and taught school there several years when he migrated to Kentucky, landing at Ashbyburg and coming to Madisonville. Here he studied medicine and here met his first wife, who was Miss Elizabeth Fugate. He taught several schools in Hopkins county, then settled down to the practice of medicine, which he followed the rest of his life.

About 1894 the family moved to Ohio county near Cromwell and remained there until 1896 they came to Hopkins county, locating at Richland. While there Steve taught school. Their next move was Ear-lington, coming here in 1896. Upon reaching this place our subject entered railway service with the L. & N., and has been in their employ ever since.

He moved to Evansville in 1903
and remained a citizen of that place until 1918; he returned to Earlington and is at present located here now holding the office of Assistant Train Master. According to lodge records he was initiated December 17, 1897, was passed Jan. 21, 1898,
and made a Master Mason March 12, 1898, he served as junior warden in '99 and as senior warden in 1900 and was elected and served as the 28th. Master in 1901. He is a member of the other Masonic bodies and holds an exalted position in the "Knife and Fork Brigade," and attends banquet meetings as regular as pig tracks and although his daily avocation has greatly prevented his attendance at lodge meetings, yet he still retains his early instructions to a remarkable degree and he takes great interest in the work when business will allow him to attend.

Politically Steve is a Democrat of the deepest dye and has always advocated the principles of the party with unflinching fidelity. He has no church connection but attends the services of the Christian denomination and is considered by all a citizen of exemplary character.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Hartford Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys

To filter the blood is the kidneys'
duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are weak.

Backache and other kidney ills
may follow.

Help the kidneys do their work.
Use Doan's Kidney Pills—the test kidney remedy.

Proof of their worth in the following:

Vernon Wheeler, railroad brakeman, Sunnydale, Ky., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has been such that I heartily recommend them. Some time ago I had an attack that was like lumbago.
The muscles in my hips and side and across the small of my back felt as though they were tied in knots. My kidneys acted irregularly for some time and I made up my mind to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I took two boxes of Doan's and they cured me.
The cure has lasted and that is what Doan's have done for me."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Wheeler had. Foster-Mil-

BEAVER DAM AGAIN VICTORIOUS

After one of the fastest and hardest fought battles ever witnessed on the Beaver Dam floor the home team again came out victorious. In the first half the Beaver Dam boys had smooth sailing the score being 26 and 8. But they were badly handicapped in the last half. Their star center, Porter Barnes, being badly hurt, and Alford one of the guards being banished from the game on personal fouls.

The outstanding feature of the game was Alford holding McFadden, the K & I teams crack goal pitcher this season, to 2 field goals in the 32 minutes he played. After this McFadden became fast and furious and the score keeper for some cause gave him credit for 2 field goals he failed to make, but after the game admitted the error and signed for score as follows:

Wireless Aids Jewelers.

Fifteen hundred small wireless outfits have been installed in Paris jewelry, watch and clock stores to enable the jewelers to catch the correct Greenwich meridian time as it is sent daily at ten o'clock by the Eiffel tower. Formerly the exact time had to be obtained from the observatory by telephone.

The installation is simplicity itself. The outfit, about nine inches in diameter, is hung on a nail in the wall. A copper wire run down to the cellar or along a water or gas pipe serves as a "ground wire," while the removal of the bulb from a nearby electric light and the insertion of a contact plug take the place of antennae. It can be done in five minutes.

1. We will become members of the Dark Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, a nonprofit Association, without capital stock, to be organized under the laws of the State of Kentucky.

Only Growers Or Landlords

2. The Association may include in its membership any tobacco grower, including the landlord or tenant or lessor or lessee of land on which tobacco is grown, provided the landlord or lessor receives all or part of the rental in tobacco.

3. The affairs of the Association shall be controlled by a board of 25 Directors; and the legal office of the Association shall be at Hopkinsville, Kentucky; and operating offices shall be at Paducah, Kentucky; Owensboro, Kentucky; Henderson, Kentucky; Bowling Green, Kentucky and Clarksville, Tennessee.

Twenty-three Directors

4. (a) The members shall elect twenty-three Directors from among members actually residing and growing tobacco in districts to be fixed equitably by the Organization Committee on the basis of the tobacco produced by the members actually signed up prior to incorporation.

(b) Each district shall include approximately the same estimated production as any other district; but counties within each district shall be kept intact.

(c) The twenty-three Directors, by a two-thirds vote shall choose two directors at large, one from each of the States of Kentucky and Tennessee, to represent the interests of the public on the General Board. These Directors need not be growers of tobacco.

Members Choose Delegates

5. (a) The members in each county in each district shall meet annually for a primary election, to be held in the county and conducted as, where and when specified by the Directors; and shall select one delegate for every million or majority fraction of a million pounds of tobacco represented in the preceding year by the members in such county. The said delegates shall then meet where, when and as instructed by the Directors, and shall select one member in each district to be presented as the nominee to represent such district. Such nominee must be elected as Director at the general meeting; and all votes cast at the primary meetings shall be deemed cast for all such nominees.

Voting By Mail

(b) If unable to attend, the members may vote at such primary meeting by mail on a signed ballot prepared under direction of the Board of Directors.

The first primary to select incorporating Directors shall be held within twenty days after announcement of the completion of the minimum sign-up herein provided for.

Fair Representation

6. The Organization Committee, at least ten days before the first primary meeting, and the Directors, by a majority vote, at least 20 days prior to all succeeding primary meetings, shall fix and specify or change the said districts and the counties included therein, so as to maintain at all times fair an equitable representation of the tobacco-producing counties and districts included in the membership.

Executive Committee

7. (a) The Board shall appoint an Executive Committee of five Directors to conduct the affairs of the Association, subject to the general control of the Board of Directors.

(b) The Directors, among other functions, shall be organized into Selling Committees, according to each general type of tobacco, particularly Dark Fired, One Sucker, Stemming and Green River. If there are not three Directors growing tobacco of each type, the Board shall select growers of such types to act with members of the Board on the respective Selling Committees of Three, with headquarters at the appropriate branch office.

Each Selling Committee shall study the problems of the particular type of tobacco grown by members and shall act in an advisory capacity to the Board of Directors of the Association on the problems and policies affecting such type, and all sales shall be made generally under the direction of the respective Selling Committee.

Officers and Employees—Bonded (c) All officers and employees of the Association who handle funds or negotiable instruments shall be adequately bonded.

Articles Of Incorporation and
By-Laws

11. The Association shall confine itself to the problems and marketing of tobacco and tobacco products only and for its members only. It shall have suitable Articles of Incorporation and By-Laws as prepared by its Incorporating Directors, stating the purposes and powers of the Association; the rights and duties of members; manner of forfeiture of membership; value of property, interest on withdrawal and any other necessary, pertinent and important points of organization as determined by the Organization Committee of the Board of Directors.

Organization Committee

12. The Association shall be organized by an Organization Committee composed of the following:

This committee may increase its membership from time to time as may be deemed necessary. It may elect new members in place of any who may resign or be unable to act and take such steps as it may deem advisable to secure subscribers for this agreement and members of the Association. The Committee shall have an Executive Committee of seven members, with Robert W. Bingham, Chairman and six others to be selected later, and to conduct the detailed affairs of organization work; to open headquarters; to make necessary expenditures and to do any and all things incident and necessary to carry on the membership campaign. It will have and exercise all the powers of the full Organization Committee when said committee is not in session.

Two-Thirds of Production Must Be Signed Up

13. (a) If by October 1, 1922, or such extended date as herein provided, signatures of tobacco growers or persons eligible for membership, covering at least two-thirds of the aggregate production of dark tobacco in Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee, in 1921, shall not have been secured for this agreement, the Organization Committee shall so notify every subscriber at his address noted below, prior to October 15, 1922, and his signature and the agreement signed by him shall be deemed canceled.

Binding Agreement

(b) If the signatures of the growers of said two-thirds shall be secured by the said date, October 1, 1922, or such extended date, then this agreement shall be binding upon all the subscribers in all of its terms, and there shall be no right of withdrawal whatsoever.

(c) The Organization Committee, by a two-thirds vote, may extend the period herein for signature and notice by thirty days.

Goes Into Effect

(d) If growers representing two-thirds of any of the four named types of dark tobacco shall sign this agreement prior to October 1st, 1922 or such extended date, the agreements shall go into effect as to any such types; but the Association shall not be incorporated therefor prior to such date.

Statement of Committee Conclusive

(e) For all matters of production or percentage or signature and for all statements of fact in connection herewith, the written statement of the Organization Committee, signed by its Chairman, shall be absolutely conclusive, with or without notice to the subscriber.

Committee Keeps True Accounts

14. The Organization Committee shall keep a full, true and detailed account of expenditures, including salaries fees and costs of every kind and shall have such accounts audited and render a written report thereof to the Board of Directors of the Association when organized; and shall thereupon turn over to the Association any balance remaining in its hands, free of obligation. If it is not so organized, such balance shall be prorated among the signers hereof.

Committee Authority

15. (a) We do hereby authorize the Organization Committee, as the representative of all subscribers, to take such steps as it may deem proper, especially in Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and any other dark tobacco growing States, to secure subscribers hereto; and, when the adequate number has been secured, to hold primary elections and have the signers select delegates to elect the organizing directors from among growers subscribing hereto; to name two temporary public directors; and to take all steps necessary and advisable to organize the Association.

To Keep Up Organization Work (b) The Association, when organized shall make every reasonable effort to secure signatures of additional growers to the standard Marketing Agreement.

Finance and Plants for Storing Tobacco

16. (a) After due investigation the Association may cause a warehousing or other corporation to be organized in any community or district, or generally where any such need is indicated, for the purpose of leasing, purchasing or constructing and operating warehouses, drying or curing, or rehandling plants, storehouses or factories, or other places to dry, handle, treat, rehandle, process, manufacture and warehouse or store any or all of the tobacco delivered by members of the Association. The Association, in all such cases, shall endeavor to acquire or lease existing warehouses and plants, especially where they are owned by growers.

(b) Such corporation shall have an appropriate name, indicating the district; and shall have common capital stock and preferred capital stock and serial bonds, in amounts estimated as sufficient for their purposes by the directors of the Association.

Association Cannot Put Up Plants
Against Desire of Members

(c) The Association shall send a written notice to every member in that district or generally, notifying the members of the intention to organize such a corporation, specifying the amount of capital stock involved; nature of plants; location of plants and specific purposes.

The members shall have one week within which to signify their dissent or disapproval of such a plan. If within one week after the mailing of such notices by the Association, the majority fail to file written notices of such disapproval or dissent, the Association shall proceed with its programme and shall organize the corporation as indicated.

(d) The Organization Committee may arrange such plan and send out such notices accordingly at any time after the minimum sign-up has been secured and announced, the notices of dissent to be filed within one week after mailing of notices of the plan by the Organization Committee.

For this purpose, the Organization Committee shall have the right to bind the Association, when organized subject to such dissent or disapproval by members.

Common Stock—Only Grower Members Can Own

(e) The authorized common stock shall ultimately exceed in amount the authorized preferred stock. The common stock shall be sold only to members of the Association at par; but no member shall purchase originally or directly more than three shares. The common stock shall have all the voting power of the corporation.

Preferred Stock Has No Vote

(f) The preferred capital stock shall be divided into five equal classes, all bearing eight per cent cumulative dividends and having similar preferences, subject to retirement at the rate of one class or one-fifth thereof annually, beginning December, 1923.

The preferred stock may be sold to any person, firm or corporation whatsoever.

Limitation on Stock Issues

(g) The original issue of preferred stock, including all classes, shall not exceed three cents for each pound of tobacco of the 1921 crop covered by the membership of that district; but this amount may be increased proportionately as the membership increases.

(h) The association shall make a cross-contract with the corporation, providing substantially as follows: That the corporation shall handle, process, dry, cure, condition, manufacture, treat, store, ship and deliver all as required and directed by (Continued from page 3)

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decorative Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil War, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward the boy was to remember his words with startling vividness.

CHAPTER II—In the schoolroom, a few years afterward, Ramsey was not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his two pronounced dislikes were arithmetic and "Recitations." In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness in the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he designates "Teacher's Pet."

CHAPTER III—In high school, where he and Dora are classmates, Ramsey continues to feel that the girl delights to flaunt her superiority, and the vindictiveness he generates becomes alarming, culminating in the resolution that some day he would "show" her.

CHAPTER IV—At a class picnic Ramsey, to his intense surprise, appears to attract the favorable attention of Miss Milha Rust, a young lady of about his own age and the acknowledged belle of the class. Milha has the misfortune to fall into a creek while talking with Ramsey, and that youth promptly plunges to the rescue. The water is only some three feet deep, but Milha's gratitude for his heroic act is embarrassing. He is in fact taken captive by the fair one, to his great consternation.

CHAPTER V—The acquaintance ripens. Ramsey and Milha openly "keep company," while the former's parents wonder. His mother indeed goes so far as to express some disapproval of his choice, even hinting that Dora Yocum would be a more suitable companion, a suggestion which the youth receives with horror.

CHAPTER VI—At this period our hero gets the thrill of his "first kiss," Milha being a very willing partner in the act. Her flippancy over the matter disconcerts Ramsey immensely, but shortly afterward the girl departs for a visit to Chicago. She leaves an endearing missive for Ramsey, which adds to his feeling of melancholy.

CHAPTER VII

He never saw her again. She sent him a "picture postal" from Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, which his father disengaged from the family mail, one morning at breakfast, and considerately handed to him without audible comment. Upon it was written, "Oh, you Ramsey!" This was the last of Milha.

Just before school opened, in the autumn, Sadie Clews made some revelations. "Milha did like you," said Sadie. "After that time you jumped in the creek to save her she liked you better than any boy in town, and I guess if it wasn't for her cousin Milt up in Chicago she would of liked you the best anywhere. I guess she did, anyway, because she hadn't seen him for about a year then."

"Well, that afternoon she went away I was over there and took in everything that was going on, only she made me promise on my word of honor I wouldn't even tell Albert. They didn't get any wire from the uncle about the touring car; it was her cousin Milt that jumped on the train and came down and fixed it all up for Milha to go on the trip, and everything. You see, Ramsey, she was turned back a couple of times in school before she came in our class and I don't know how old she is and she don't look old yet, but I'm pretty sure she's at least eighteen, and she might be over. I didn't think such a great deal of this Milt's looks myself, but he's anyway twenty-one years old, and got a good position, and all their family seem to think he's just fine! It wasn't his father that took in the touring car on the debt, like she said she was writing you; it was Milt himself. He started out in business when he was only thirteen years old, and this trip he was gettin' up for his father and mother and Milha was the first vacation he ever took. Well, of course she wouldn't like my tellin' you, but I can't see the harm of it, now everything's all over."

"All—over? You mean Milha's going to be—to be married?"

"She already is," said Sadie. "They got married at her Aunt Jess and Uncle Purv's house, up in Chicago, last Thursday. Yes, sir; that quiet, little Milha's a regular old married woman by this time, I expect, Ramsey!"

When he got over the shock, which was not until the next day, one predominant feeling remained: It was a gloomy pride—a pride in his proven maturity. He was old enough, it appeared, to have been the same thing as engaged to a person who was now a Married Woman. His manner thenceforth showed an added trace of seriousness and self-consideration.

Having recovered his equipoise and something more, he entirely forgot that moment of humble admiration he had felt for Dora Yocum on the day of his flattest prostration. When he saw her sitting in the classroom, smiling brightly up at the teacher, the morning of the school's opening in the autumn, all his humility had long since vanished and she appeared to him not otherwise than as the scholar whose complete proficiency had always been so irksome to him.

"Look at her!" he muttered to himself. "Same ole Teacher's Pet!"

Now and then, as the days and se-sons passed, and Dora's serene progress continued, never checked or even flawed, there stirred within him some lingerings of the old determination to "show" her; and he would conjure up a day-dream of Dora in loud lamentation, while he led the laughter of the spectators. But gradually his feeling about her came to be merely a dull oppression. He was tired of having to look at her (as he stated it) and he thanked the Lord that the time wouldn't be so long now until he'd be out of that ole school, and then all he'd have to do he'd just take care never to walk by her house. It was easy enough to use some other street when he had to go down town.

"The good ole class of Nineteen-Fourteen is about gone," he said to Fred Mitchell, who was still his most intimate friend when they reached the senior year. "Yes, sir; it's held together a good many years, Fred, but after June it'll be busted plum up, and I hope nobody starts a move to have any reunions. There's a good many members of the ole class that I can stand and there's some I can't, but there's one I just won't! If we ever did call a reunion, that ole Yocum girl would start in right away and run the whole shebang, and that's where I'd resign! You know, Fred, the thing I think is the one biggest benefit of graduating from this ole school? It's never seein' Dora Yocum again."

This was again his theme as he sat by the same friend's side, in the rear row of the class at Commencement, listening to the delivery of the Valedictory. "Thanks she's just so blime, don't she!" he whispered morosely. "She wouldn't trade with the President of the United States right now. Never mind! Just about a half-an-hour more and that's the last of you, ole girl! Yes, sir, Fred; one thing we can feel pretty good over: This is where we get through with Dora Yocum!"

Ramsey and Fred had arranged to room together at Greenfield, the seat of the state university, and they made the short journey in company the following September. They arrived hiliarious, anticipating pleasurable excitements in the way of "fraternity" pledges and initiations, encounters with sophomores, class meetings, and elections; and, also, they were not absolutely without interest in the matter of Girls, for the state university was co-educational, and it was but natural to expect in so broad a field, all new to them, a possible vision of something rather thrilling. They whispered cheerfully of all these things during the process of matriculation, and signed the registrar's book on a fresh page; but when Fred had written his name under Ramsey's and blotted it, he took the liberty of turning over the leaf to examine some of the autographs of their future classmates, written on the other side. Then he uttered an exclamation, more droll than dolorous, though it affected to be wholly the latter; for the shock to Fred was by no means so painful as it was to his friend.

Ramsey leaned forward and read the name indicated by Fred's forefinger.

DORA YOCUM.

When they got back to their pleasant quarters at Mrs. Meigs', facing the campus, Ramsey was still unable to talk of anything except the lamentable discovery; nor were his companion's burlesquing efforts to console him of great avail, though Fred did become serious enough to point out that a university was different from a high school.

"It's not like havin' to use one big room as a headquarters, you know, Ramsey. Everything's all split up, and she might happen not be in a single one of your classes."

"You don't know my luck!" the afflicted boy protested. "I wish I'd gone to Harvard, the way my father wanted me to. Why, this is just the worst nuisance I ever struck! You'll see! She'll be in everything there is, just the way she was back home."

He appeared to be corroborated by the events of the next day, when they attended the first meeting to organize the new class. The masculine element predominated, but Dora Yocum was elected vice president. "You see?" Ramsey said. "Didn't I tell you? You see what happens?"

But after that she ceased for a time to intrude upon his life, and he admitted that his harassment was less grave than he had anticipated. There were about five hundred students in the freshman class; he seldom saw her, and when he did it was not more than a distant glimpse of her on one of the campus paths, her thoughtful head bent over a book as she hurried to a classroom. This was bearable; and in the flattering agitations of being sought, and even hunted, by several "fraternities" simultaneously desirous of his becoming a sworn Brother, he almost forgot her. After a hazardous month the roommates fell into the arms of the last "frat" to seek them, and having undergone an evening of outrage which concluded with touching rhetoric and an oath taken at midnight, they proudly wore jeweled symbols on their breasts and were free to turn part of their attention to other affairs, especially the affairs of the Eleven.

However, they were instructed by the older brethren of their Order, whose duty it was to assist in the proper maneuvering of their young careers, that, although support of the "varsity" teams was important, they must neglect neither the spiritual nor the intellectual by-products of undergraduate doings. Therefore they became members of the college Y. M. C. A. and of the "Lumen Society."

According to the charter which it had granted itself, the "Lumen Society" was an "Organization of male and female students"—so "advanced" was this university—"for the development of the powers of debate and oratory, intellectual and sociological progress, and the discussion of all matters relating to philosophy, metaphysics, literature, art, and current events." A statement so formidable was not without a hushing effect upon Messrs. Milholland and Mitchell; they went to their first "Lumen" meeting in a state of fear and came away little reassured.

"I couldn't get up there," Ramsey declared, "I couldn't stand up there before all that crowd and make a speech, or debate in a debate, to save my soul and gizzard! Why, I'd just keel right over and haf to be carried out."

"Well, the way I understand it," said Fred, "we can't get out of it. The seniors in the 'frat' said we had to join, and they said we couldn't resign, either, after we had joined. They said we just had to go through it, and after a while we'd get used to it and not mind it so much."

"I will!" Ramsey insisted. "I couldn't any more stand up there on my feet and get to spoutin' about sociology and the radical metempsychosis of the metempsychological bazoos than I could fly a flyin' machine. Why, I—"

"Oh, that wasn't anything," Fred interrupted. "The only one that talked like that, he was that Bickens; he's a tutor, or something, and really a member of the faculty. Most o' the others just kind of blab-blashed around, and what any of 'em tried to get off their chests hardly amounted to terribly much."

"What on Earth's the Matter, Ramsey?"

"I don't care. I couldn't do it at all!"

"Well, the way it looks to me," Fred observed, "we simply got to! From what they tell me, the freshmen got to do more than anybody. Every other Friday night, it's all freshmen and nothin' else. You get a postal card on Monday morning in your mail, and it says 'Assignment' on it and—and—then it's got written underneath what you haf to do the next Friday night—orator or debate, or maybe just read from some ole book or something. I guess we got to stand up there and try, anyway."

"All right," said Ramsey. "If they want me to commit suicide they can send me one o' their ole 'Assignments.' I won't need to commit suicide, though. I guess. All I'll do, I'll just fall over in a fit, and stay in it."

And, in truth, when he received his first "Assignment," one Monday morning, a month later, he seemed in a fair way to fulfill his prophecy. The attention of his roommate, who sat at a window of their study, was attracted by sounds of strangulation. "What on earth's the matter, Ramsey?"

"Look! Look at this!"

Fred took the card and examined it with an amazement gradually merging into a pleasure altogether too perceptible:

ASSIGNMENT

Twelve-Minute Debate, Class of 1918. Subject, Resolved: That Germany is, both legally and morally justified in her invasion of Belgium.

(Debaters are notified that each will be held strictly to the following schedule: Affirmative, 4 min., first. Negative, 4 min., first. Affirm., 2 min., second. Neg., 2 min., second.)

Affirmative, R. MILHOLLAND, '18

Negative, D. YOCUM, '18.

Concluding his reading, which was oral, the volatile Mitchell made use of his voice in a manner of heathenish boisterousness, and presently reclined upon a lounge to laugh the better. His stricken comrade, meanwhile, recovered so far as to pace the floor. "I'm goin' to pack up and light out for home!" he declared over and over. And even oftener he read and reread the card to make sure of the actuality of that fatal coincidence, "D. Yocum, '18."

"If I could do it," he vociferated, "If I could stand up there and debate one o' their darn ole debates in the first place—if I had the gall to even try it, why, my gosh! you don't suppose I'm goin' to get up there and argue with that girl, do you? That's a hot way to get an education: stand up there and argue with a girl before a couple o' hundred people! My gosh!"

"You got to!" his prostrate companion cackled weakly. "You can't get out of it. You're a goner, ole Buddy!"

"I'll be sick, I'll be sick as a dog! I'll be sick as the sickest dog that ever—"

"No use, ole man. The 'frat' seniors'll be on the job. They'll know whether you're sick or not, and they'll have you there, right on the spot to the minute!"

The prediction was accurate. The too fatherly "frat seniors" did all that Fred said they would, and more. For the honor of the "frat," they coached the desperate Ramsey in the technique of Lumen debate, told him many more things to say than could be said in six minutes, and produced him, despairing, ghastly and bedewed, in the large hall of the Lumen society at eight o'clock on Friday evening.

Four other "twelve-minute debates" preceded his and the sound of these, in Ramsey's ears, was the sound of Gabriel practising on his horn in the early morning of Judgment day. The members of the society sat, three rows deep, along the walls of the room, leaving a clear oblong of green carpet in the center, where were two small desks, twenty feet apart, the rostrums of the debaters. Upon a platform at the head of the room sat dreadful seniors, the officers of the society, and, upon benches near the platform, the debaters of the evening were aligned. One of the fraternal seniors sat with sweltering Ramsey; and the latter, as his time relentlessly came nearer, made a last miserable squirm.

"No, you don't, young fellow."

"Yes, I do!" Ramsey whispered, passionately. "Honest, I do. Honest, Brother Colburn, I got to get a drink of water. I got to!"

"No. You can't."

"Honest, Colburn, I got to—"

"Hush!"

Ramsey cast his dilating eyes along the rows of faces. Most of them were but as blurs, swimming, yet he was aware (he thought) of a formidable and horrible impassive scrutiny of himself, a glare seeming to pierce through him to the back of the belt round his waist, so that he began to have fearful doubts about that belt, about every fastening and adjustment of his garments, about the expression of his countenance, and many other things jumbling together in his consciousness. Over and over he whispered gaspingly to himself the opening words of the sentence with which a senior had advised him to begin his argument. And as the moment of supreme agony drew close, this whispering became continuous: "In making my first appearance before this honorable membership I feel constrained to say in making my first appearance before this honorable membership I feel constrained to say in making my first appearance before this honorable mem—"

IN MEMORY OF MISS MYRTLE PAYTON

In memory of our beloved daughter and sister, Myrtle Payton, who departed this life March 26th, 1921. Just one year ago today our darling passed away. Lord keep green the grave that lies beneath the starry skies.

God called her home at his will, but in our hearts she will always linger; for all of us she always did her best. May God grant her eternal rest; she is sadly missed by all. Her presence lingers still about the room.

Her footsteps echo yet upon the floor, Her cheery smile still brightens all the gloom.

Though she has hurried out and closed the door, And all our souls with bitter anguish shook,

We strive to pierce the darkness o'er and o'er; 'Tis for us to know the course she took.

Yet in grief we can but know That blue and kindly skies above her bend.

And whither she has journeyed we shall go, And there again she shall meet her friends.

A little lapse of time, the door will open wide again, And we will journey at her side,

We can but pray God to let us clasp her hand again.

J. Y. MONTGOMERY DIES AT HOME NEAR CENTERTOWN

On March 17th, at 4:00 p. m., Mr. J. Y. Montgomery, one of Ohio County's most highly respected citizens, died of pneumonia. He was born in Missouri December 9, 1846, but was brought to Daviess County, Kentucky at the age of one year, where he lived till 1898, when he, with his family, moved to Ohio County.

Mr. Montgomery served in the Southern Army under Captain Taylor. He was married to Kessiah Elizabeth McDonald October 23, 1892. To this union were born ten children, two dying in infancy and one daughter, Ella, wife of E. E. Rhoads in 1906.

Mr. Montgomery was a good man, beloved by all his friends and neighbors. Our loss is great, but we must bow to Him who doth all things well.

His widow and the following children survive him: Benton, Wilson, Nathan and Floyd Montgomery; Mrs. S. H. Render, Centertown, Ky.; Mrs. J. W. Carter, Owensboro, Ky.; and Doctor G. L. Montgomery, McCook, Nebraska.

Funeral services were conducted at Walton's Creek Baptist Church where he had been a faithful member, by his pastor, Rev. J. A. Bennett, Utica, Ky.

JOHN E. MILLER WRITES

East St. Louis, Ill.,
March 23rd, 1922.

Editor Herald,

Hartford, Ky.

Dear Sir:—I notice the tag on my Herald indicates that my subscription is out. I am enclosing herewith a money order to keep it in force for another year. I have to have the news from home and the dear old Herald comes just as regularly as the mail-train and lets me know each week all the happenings of my old home county.

And I notice that one of your townspeople was visiting here recently and did not look me up. Now I am just as much of a Kentuckian now as I was when I lived there and would certainly be glad to see any one from my native state and county. There are a number of people here from Kentucky and when we meet we almost feel as though we were related.

So if any more of your citizens visit East St. Louis, I hope they will just look up No. 330 N. 6th. St., and let themselves be known.

Very respectfully yours
JOHN E. MILLER.

Misses Minerva and Cesna Johnson have taken rooms in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Nall, on Renner St., where they will remain until the close of the school term when they will join their parents on their farm about 3 miles west of town.

Hartford Herald, $1.50 the year.
